THE CENTERS AT ST. CAMILLUS NAMES NEW RELATIONSHIP DEVELOPMENT COORDINATOR

(SYRACUSE, NY) The Centers at St. Camillus announced today that Michael Connor, of Syracuse, NY, will serve the professional, not-for-profit health care organization as its new relationship development coordinator.

Connor will work to maintain and increase relationships with donors and event underwriters, enhance relationships with family members of residents and patients, and encourage overall support by developing loyalty and helping to publicize and promote the needs of the facility throughout the community.

Connor is well-known in central New York for his professional experience in health care as well as the performing arts. He served as director of public relations for Loretto from 2005 to 2012, and currently enjoys a more than 30-year association with Syracuse Opera both on stage as a principal artist and administratively, most recently as director of advancement.

"I'm tremendously excited to be working in the health care field again, especially for The Centers at St. Camillus", Connor stated. "I live nearby and have always thought of The Centers at St. Camillus as my neighbors; now it's my privilege to work with them." Connor also stated, "The Centers at St. Camillus has a very dedicated staff and excellent care programs, from comprehensive nursing to rehabilitation and other support services to promote wellness and independence. I look forward to becoming very well acquainted with our residents and patients and their individual needs, and then work with their families, other loved ones and the community to achieve additional awareness and support."

Established in 1969, The Centers at St. Camillus has become a health care leader in central New York as one of the area's most respected not-for-profit skilled nursing and rehabilitation facilities.
