

What does the best day look like at the end of life?

Explore

- Empowering residents/patients and families to take control of this life-stage
- Knowing when your role moves from prolonging life to prolonging quality of life
- Having difficult conversations
- Managing differing expectations of residents/families, friends, care givers and staff

Join Laurie Mante, Executive Director and Dr. Paul Heasley, Chief Medical Officer of The Community Hospice as they facilitate an open discussion following the showing of the PBS premiere of Frontline's documentary on the #1 best seller, Being Mortal.

Seating is limited, registration is required. Beverages and continental breakfast will be provided.

LeadingAge™
New York

DATE: April 28

TIME: 7:30a.m Continental Breakfast / 8:00a.m. Documentary / 10:00a.m. Q & A

COST: Complimentary

LOCATION: Leading Age New York, 13 British American Blvd/Suite 2, Latham

ONLINE REGISTRATION:

Click Here To Register

“

Medical professionals concentrate on repair of health, not sustenance of the soul. Yet—and this is the painful paradox—we have decided that they should be the ones who largely define how we live in our waning days.”

Atul Gawande