LIESL BANKER HIRED AS COMMUNICATION SPECIALIST

Fox Run adds another new full-time position to support current expansion

ORCHARD PARK, NY: Fox Run at Orchard Park CEO Bill Wlodarczyk, has announced the addition of Communication Specialist Liesl Banker to the Fox Run staff. This announcement is two-fold, as Ms. Banker's position has been created to go hand in hand with the new 71 independent living unit expansion currently underway. Ms. Banker's resume boasts project management, communications, and senior administrative support, and that is precisely the role she has filled, essentially spearheading the initiative behind her day-to-day tasks in the short time she has been on staff at Fox Run.

Ms. Banker is the essential key element to keeping communication error-free between Lehigh Construction Group, who are building the expansion, The Fox Run Senior Management Team, and most importantly, communicating the minute details of the on-going construction project that could be disruptive to Fox Run Community Members.

According to Wlodarczyk, "Ms. Banker can articulate construction verbiage to our Fox Run community. She is organized, well-spoken and has shown an innate understanding of construction blueprints, and what that means for daily living to our community. Ms. Banker took it upon herself to host early morning (cement) 'Pour Parties' (coffee and Danish included) to explain the different stages of building. She also started 'Construction Tours' that explain the changes with the addition and subtraction of the interior common space temporary walls that move periodically. It is clear from Liesl's first day on the job that she embodies the Fox Run mission statement and fits the Fox Run culture."

Ms. Banker's position will continue to evolve as the project does. This expansion is slated to be completed by the end of 2027. Ms. Banker is also involved in local art galleries, community outreach programs, is a published author, and a passionate mental health advocate. She lives in Orchard Park, NY, with her husband.
