Queens-Long Island Renal Institute launches a new website

New Hyde Park, New York, August 22, 2022 – The Queens-Long Island Renal Institute, a leading dialysis provider with a 5-Diamond Patient Safety Program, is pleased to announce the launch of its new website: <https://www qliri.org/>.

The new Queens-Long Island Renal Institute website highlights the center’s innovative services. This includes details about its hemodialysis treatment, as well as information about the Home Hemodialysis Program through which patients can transition from an in-center environment to receiving hemodialysis from the comfort of their home. The website also features an Education Center that is complete with valuable, easy-to-access resources about kidney health for the community.

“The Queens-Long Island Renal Institute continues to meet the needs of patients and their families. Our new website makes it even easier to navigate the information that is essential for both those requiring dialysis and for their caregivers. Our new website expands our ability to provide access to treatment so that people can get the care they need in a comfortable, relaxed setting, helping to foster better overall well-being,” said Michael N. Rosenblut, President and CEO of Queens-Long Island Renal Institute.
